About MING

The name of the proposed executive committee in the session 2010 is MING.

In Chinese, MING is originated from the sound of birds; this meaning could be extended as "to speak out the voices". It symbolizes that we will endeavor to "speak out the voices of members and even society." According to a Chinese idiom, "It's impossible to clap with one hand (gū zhāng nán míng) " We understand that individual voice may not be noticed. Thus, we will represent members to express their opinions. We will also provide HKU students with opportunities to express themselves freely through various functions organized by the Society.

We recognize a remarkable relationship between the study of social sciences and human society. As in academic fields, social sciences cover numerous aspects of knowledge. Thus, we wish to encourage different schools of thoughts from social sciences to contend simultaneously (bǎi jiā zhēng míng). By doing so, we shall promote the study of social sciences.

The Chinese word "MING" also has a homophone of "to manifest". As mentioned in the motto of HKU "wisdom and virtue", manifesting virtue is important to society. We shall bear social responsibility and care for society. We hope students in HKU, and people in society can share these voices.

We will endeavor to serve members. Through our internal functions, we hope to deepen the mutual understandings and friendship among them, and enhance the bonding between them.

As the old Chinese saying goes, "shall you once speak out, people are enlightened (bù míng zé yī. yī míng jīng rén)", we will not only express our voices, but also act; we will not only plan, but also believe.

If we are elected, we shall endeavor to achieve our objectives, and be responsible to both members and society.
